Maureen Palmer is an occupational therapist that owns a private therapy clinic in Southfield, Michigan. She will be interviewing guests live to discuss their areas of expertise. Many of her guests are individuals who are professionals and parents who will be articulating personal stories about what they found that helpful in raising their child. Maureen will take emails and call-ins on her show. Maureen’s guests will have an opportunity to feature their research, therapeutic interventions, and products during the show.

The program airs live weekly for one hour on VoiceAmerica.com (Health and Wellness channel) and is accessible to a global audience. It is also rebroadcast 12 hours after original air time and twice each week. All shows are syndicated through iTunes, remain in archives, can be downloaded to mp3 players and purchased as CDs.
